

ALONZO B. NEWBY DIED OF INJURIES

Unfortunate Man Never Regains Consciousness After the Sad Accident.

INJURIES REGARDED AS FATAL

Physicians Gave Opinion Death Was Due to an Extensive Fracture at Base of Brain.

Alonzo B. Newby, who was fatally injured Monday morning by a fall from a ladder in the Baptist church where he was working, died about 12:30 o'clock this morning, having never regained consciousness. The unfortunate man suffered an extensive fracture at the base of the brain and never spoke a word or even moved from the time he fell until his death.

Mr. Newby had been employed for several years by T. R. Carter, as a decorator and paper hanger, and during the past few days had been working on the interior of the church where the accident occurred. At the time he fell he was working from near the top of a ladder which was about fifteen feet high. Mr. Carter left the building about 10 o'clock, and judging from the progress which had been made in the work, it is supposed that Mr. Newby fell about thirty minutes later. He was not found until about 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon, after Mrs. Newby had inquired at the store as to why he did not return home at noon.

As soon as it was discovered that Mr. Newby had met with the sad accident several physicians were called, who upon examination pronounced his injuries as fatal.

The deceased was the son of W. H. and Julia Newby, and was born in Seymour April 30, 1867, making his age 43 years, 4 months and 30 days. His father died several years ago, and his mother resides in Indianapolis, although she was in Seymour on a visit when the accident occurred. For several years he lived in Columbus, but has made Seymour his home for some time. Besides his mother he is survived by his wife, one sister, Miss Catharine Newby, of Indianapolis, and one brother, Wallace, of Cincinnati.

The funeral services will be held from his late residence on east Seventh street Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. F. M. Huckleberry, pastor of the First Baptist church. Burial at Riverview.

R. M. McClam who has been nursing a mashed foot the past three weeks, was able to come down from Franklin yesterday, but is traveling with crutches. He was hurt while coupling cars on the B. & O. at Carlisle, Ill. He was formerly located here but was transferred to the west end nine weeks ago.

Two fish and game wardens, Fred Ehler and Bernard Kelley, have been about Seymour the past week. At night they have patrolled the streams on the hunt for violators but they have found things dull in their line. The fishermen around here seem to have either too much respect for the law to violate it or else were on their good behavior in honor of the game wardens, whose presence in this locality was known to some at least. The two men made their first showing toward earning their salary last night when they captured a seine 100 feet long in the barn of a prominent farmer. A charge against the latter was filed in Justice Congdon's court this morning and he came in and entered a plea of guilty and paid a fine and costs amounting to $34.85.

He stated that he had found the seine on the river bank and placed it in the barn but had never used it.

GOLF TOURNEY.

Interesting Plan Proposed for Games at Country Club.

Several members of the Country Club are making arrangements for a series of match games Thursday afternoon. The plan which has been suggested has never been adopted by the club here but will prove very interesting.

According to the plan there will be two captains, who will choose the teams from the list of members who will participate. The players will then be matched in pairs, and the team winning the largest number of games will be declared the victors. For each game there will be two different captains, and the members will play with the team to which they are chosen. The plan will be tried for the first time Thursday afternoon, and it is urged that all the members take a part. The players are requested to file their names with the secretary of the club, John Gebhart, at once so that the teams can be chosen.

Industry Has Had Marvelous Growth Last Year.

Moving pictures are the main American amusement of today. You must appreciate this first of all. Study this table.

In New York City, the moving-picture center of the world, there are 250 "shows" against only 76 regular theaters. Some of the latter include moving pictures on their bills.

The chief combination of manufacturers produces 20,000 feet a week of new films—of which eighty copies apiece must be made. Mr. Edison's royalty, begun only recently, amounts from this source to an income of $8000 a week. The middlemen or "exchanges" pay manufacturers $9,000, 000 for films, which the former rent at about $18,000,000 a year to the actual exhibitors or showmen. They in turn collected nickels and dimes in 1909, at their 10,000 ticket-windows, amounting to $57,500,000. And these audiences numbered more than two and a quarter million souls per day—three times the audiences of all the regular theatres in America put together!—From the Moving Picture and the National Character," in the American Review of Reviews for September.

Family Reunion.

The members of the Robertson family held a family reunion in Seymour today at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. David Robertson on North Ewing street. Nearly all of the brothers and sisters and their families were present and enjoyed a very pleasant day. At noon an elaborate dinner was served. Among those from a distance who were present were: Mrs. William Isaacs, Mrs. J. W. Wayman, Mrs. Ella Welsh and Mrs. Fred Enochs, of Brownstown; Mrs. E. L. Holmes, of Sandoval, Ill.; Mrs. Ida Laraway and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Robertson of Cortland.

Assault and Battery Charge.

Julius Bode, of Waymansville, filed an affidavit in Justice Kinney's court Monday against John Korfage, also of Waymansville, charging him with assault and battery, and officers from Columbus went to Waymansville Monday to arrest the accused.

Bode told the court that he and Korfage had trouble Sunday over a line fence and that the latter struck him on the nose with a club, and the nose gave mute evidence that it had been hit by something, for it was badly bruised and swollen.

UNITED BRETHREN TO MEET AT MEDORA

Indiana Conference Will be Held at That Place From September 14 to 18.

BISHOP BELL WILL PRESIDE

Congregation Making Arrangements to Entertain Over One Hundred Delegates and Ministers.

The members of the United Brethren church at Medora are making arrangements to entertain the Indiana conference of that church from Wednesday, Sept. 14 until the following Sunday. There are three conferences in the state, the Indiana conference being composed of all the churches in the counties south of Columbus. In that district there are thirty-nine charges one of the strongest of which is the church at Medora.

The first session will be held Wednesday morning and the sessions will close Sunday evening with an evangelistic service under the direction of the committee on conference extension and evangelism. A strong program has been arranged and a number of the most prominent ministers and laymen of that denomination will give addresses and take part in the discussions which have been planned. Among those who will deliver sermons are Dr. Whitney, of Dayton, O., and Dr. Gable, of Ohio.

The Medora church has had a very successful year under the pastorate of Rev. J. W. Settle, who has been there since last September. The church has a large and strong membership, who are interested in the success of the church. Every effort will be made to entertain the 120 delegates who will attend the conference in as pleasant a manner as possible. Medora has entertained the conference twice before, which speaks well for the congregation.

The officers of the conference are: Recording secretary, W. E. Snyder; Statistical secretary, L. T. Taylor; Treasurer, S. L. Todd; Committee on Arrangements, Presiding Elders J. W. Gilley and W. E. Snyder.

Surprised.

A number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Marshall gave them a pleasant surprise Monday evening in honor of their recent marriage, which occurred Thursday evening at Scottsburg. Mrs. Marshall was formerly Mrs. Hulda Balsley. During the evening elegant refreshments were served and the guest had a most enjoyable time.

Weather Forecast.

"I do not think," says Edmund Yates in his book, "Recollections and Experiences," "I ever met a man more hopelessly deaf than Charles Kemble at seventy. Some of us were sitting one afternoon at the Garrick club when a tremendous thunderstorm broke over the house.

"It raged with extraordinary fury, one clap exploding with terrific noise immediately above us like a volley of artillery.

"We looked round at each other almost in horror, when Charles Kemble, who was calmly reading, lifted his eyes from his book and said in his trumpet tone, 'I think we are going to have some thunder; I feel it in my knees!'"

STRONG DEMAND FOR LABOR

Employment Bureau Looks for Position for Woman With Child.

The week opened with a strong demand for laboring men at the employment bureau at the state statistician's office, employers asking for 125 laborers. Of these places, seventy-five remain unfilled. Fifty men were wanted for railroad work, wages of $2 and $2.50 a day, with board at $4.50 vanced to be taken out of the wages of the men later. The bureau is looking for a place in a home for a young woman who has a child more than 2 years old and wants a home for her child at her place of employment. She is now employed in a restaurant as a dishwasher, a place which the bureau found for her temporarily, but wants a place where she can give the child better attention.

Family Reunion.

A very pleasant family reunion was given Sunday for Mrs. E. Burckdall in honor of her sixty-third birthday anniversary, at her home at the corner of Fifth and Pine streets. About twenty guests were present and enjoyed the splendid dinner that was served. In the afternoon some excellent music was given, which was thoroughly appreciated. Among those from a distance who were present were, Mrs. Ed Stanfield, of Indianapolis, and Mrs. Lelia Abbott, of Lawrenceburg.

Stock Company.

The Manhattan Stock Company will open their regular winter season at the Majestic Theatre Thursday evening. They will offer as their opening W. H. Harders' latest success, "The Slave Girl", a true story of the old plantation life in the days of slavery. ## LEAVING WASHINGTON

Striking Machinists Go to Other Cities In Search of Employment.

A special dispatch from Washington regarding the injunction which was served, says:

With the serving of the writ of injunction by Sheriff Colbert on the local striking machinists the picket lines were withdrawn from the grounds of the B. & O. S-W. railroad and the men who have made the shops their home for the last four months ventured out on the streets without hindrance. Many strikers are leaving the city. The sheriff has been busy all day rounding up the forty defendants, and with each service he warns the men that failure to comply with its provisions means a term in the County Jail.

Many of the strikers departed from Washington Monday and more are preparing to leave immediately, this action being brought about because International President, O'Connell refuses to call off the strike.

Tightened Whistle Valve.

A clogged whistle valve on a Southern Indiana engine created some excitement Sunday night about 9 o'clock and had half the male population out looking for a fire. The engine was coming into town from the east and when the engineer pulled the valve to whistle for the station the open valve in some way became locked and there was a continuous screech of the whistle while the engine came into the yards and was then run to the shops, where half an hour or more was required to release the valve and stop the noise of the whistle. People who heard it thought at first it was the Giberson mill whistle blowing for a fire and when they ran out from all directions without seeing any sign of fire many of them returned home unable to explain the mystery, but it was later learned that it was only a clogged whistle of the engine.—Bedford Democrat.

Accepts Position.

Mr. Ed Hopewell will leave in about ten days for Northern Minnesota, where he has accepted a position as instructor of commercial branches in Park Region Luther College. A number of the leading colleges will use the graduates of the Seymour Business College as their instructors next year. The 5th year of the Seymour Business College will begin September 5th. S. B. C. graduates are in demand. Mr. Hopewell says he is confident that he could have secured five or six other good places.

THE WEST WILD FOR ROOSEVELT

Denver Gives the Colonel a Great Ovation.

HE DID SOME MORE SMASHING

Not Since He Left the Executive Office Has the Colonel Come Out So Boldly Against the Things He Does Not Admire, and Crowd Whooped It Up in the Way of the West for the Man They Delighted to Hear.

Denver, Aug. 30.—In the capital of Colorado Theodore Roosevelt did more smashing than he has done since he was president. Before the state legislature he criticised two decisions handed down by the supreme court of the United States. In the auditorium before a crowd of 20,000 persons he gave his most advanced views on the subject of conservation, deploring the backwardness of the east and praising the west for the strides it has taken. He declared that not a single acre of our public lands should hereafter pass into private ownership except for the single purpose of homestead settlement.

Roosevelt did not attack the administration. In fact, he did not refer to it by spoken word. He ignored Taft and he omitted any reference that could possibly be construed as an endorsement of what the administration has done. Colorado legislators who have been fighting their own battles with Governor Shafroth out here had the opportunity of hearing the colonel rail against the supreme court and plead for the more advanced system. He asked them to be progressive, because he said a great democracy must be progressive or else fall. It was in the chamber of the house that Mr. Roosevelt shouted that he was against the muckrakers who accused a man unjustly; that he will go the limit in condemning the writers of the public press who tell untruths about political and social conditions.

Throughout a day of unquestionable Roosevelt triumph the colonel poured his words and notions into willing ears and minds. Denver was in a receptive mood. Robert Speer, a Democrat, practically nominated Roosevelt for the presidency in 1912. As he introduced Mr. Roosevelt before the audience in the auditorium where Bryan was nominated for the presidency two years ago, Mr. Speer lost control of himself in his enthusiasm for the colonel.

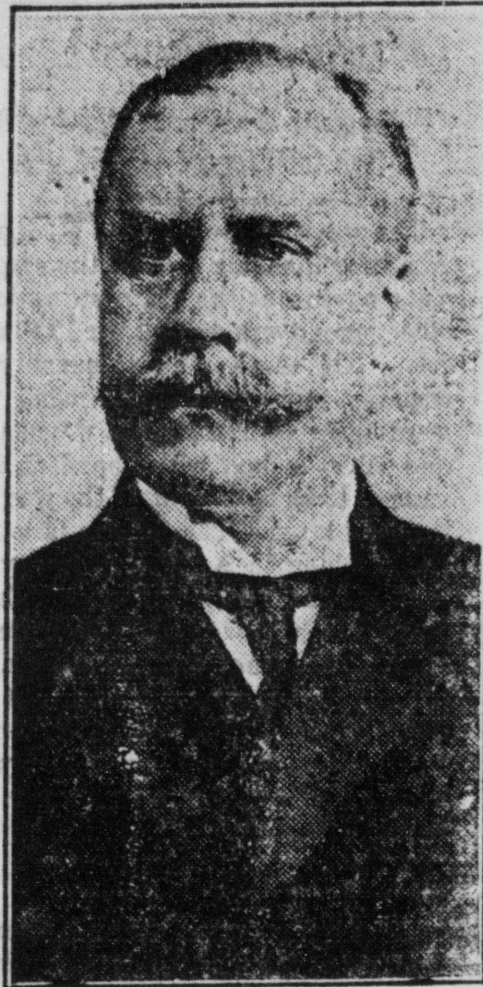

"May you live to perform the great work which the American people expect of you," the mayor boomed. "The great majority of the Republicans in the west and a good many Democrats will not be silent until they see you at the helm again." A roar swept the hall. Men and women joined in offering to Theodore Roosevelt an ovation the like of which he has not heard in many days. The band played. It was a straight-from-the-heart ovation, too, for the folk of the west and Denver especially are mad about Roosevelt. The most rabid critics of Mr. Roosevelt were stirred by the greeting Denver accorded him. From morning till night he was on his feet. The Rocky mountains in the distance all but reverberated with the whoops of joy ejaculated by the people of this state who had traveled miles to be here. The militia escorted him through the streets. The governor and his officials carried him everywhere. Garfield and Pinchot came along and took in the whole show with very evident smiles on their faces. All along the line the noise would have made a boiler works seem like the hush of death.

At the entrance to the auditorium Roosevelt discovered that Judge Lindsey, the magazine writer who has hammered the corporations and other things, was not to be allowed to sit on the stage. Several persons had objected. As soon as the colonel heard of this he insisted that the judge be seated on the stage. He said that he would not speak unless the judge were present. The judge was summoned. "Conservation," the colonel began, "does not mean non-use or non-development. It does not mean tying up of the natural resources of the states. It means the utilization of the resources under such regulation and control as will prevent waste, extravagance and monopoly, but at the same time not discourage, but encourage, such use and development as will serve the people generally." This was a good beginning apparently, for the crowd manifested its delight a long time.

Senator Charles J. Hughes and Senator Guggenheim, on the platform, looked about them. The two did not sit together. When Roosevelt told his hearers that the coal mines should be leased, not sold, and that those who mine coal should pay back a part of the profit to the people, there was applause, because the point hit the mark.

Senator Guggenheim sat still as the colonel made this utterance in connection with the open range: "It would be a great calamity whose baleful effect on the average citizen we can scarcely exaggerate, if the great store of coal and other mineral fuels still owned by the people in Alaska and elsewhere should pass into unregulated ownership of monopolistic corporations."

INSURGENTS CONTROL KANSAS REPUBLICANS

Standpatters Declare They Are Absolved From Support.

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 30.—The Republican party council today is controlled by the insurgents by a two to one vote. The insurgent leaders, consisting of Senator Bristow, Congressmen Murdock and Madison, Governor Stubbs and William Allen White, have a platform that will endorse President Taft but condemn the men he has chosen as advisers. Condemnation of certain schedules in the tariff, especially lead, wool, cotton and a few others, will be made.

Instructions to Kansas congressmen and senators to follow the lead of the president in his recently announced policy to demand a revision of these schedules separate from the general bill and as soon as the tariff commission can get the facts on which to base a revision, will be given.

Instructions to congressmen and senators to work and vote for a resolution submitting to a vote a constitutional amendment providing for the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people, will be embodied also.

The standpatters, headed by Senator Curtis, will offer as a substitute ringing resolutions endorsing Mr. Taft in unqualified terms. When the insurgents vote down the minority's platform, the standpatters declare the action will absolve them from all obligation to vote for Governor Stubbs and the insurgent candidates for congress.

Plucky Mayor Saves Prisoner.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 30.—Only the determined stand of Mayor James H. Polgrave prevented a lynching here. A mob of 300 men appeared before the jail, intent upon lynching Charles Howard, a negro, who stabbed Edward Rice, a white man, to death. The mayor held the mob at bay until the negro could be taken to Lexington.

Freight Cars Demolished.

Danville, Ind., Aug. 30.—A Big Four train of forty-eight freight cars was wrecked a mile west of Danville when it dashed into an open switch while running at a rate of thirty-five miles an hour. The engineer, fireman and head brakeman escaped by jumping. Ten cars were thrown from the track and four were demolished.

SIDE TALKS ON PUBLIC AFFAIRS

By Old John Henry.

To the Editor:

It is up to the good people of Indiana to fight the bosses all the time.

I hold that Governor Marshall shirked his duty to the rank and file of the Democratic party when he laid down and permitted Thomas Taggart to walk away with the Democratic party organization. I find lots of my neighbors who believe Marshall owed it to party and to the people to down the bosses and regain for the voters the control which is theirs by right.

Some folks say Governor Marshall is lazy or indolent. Some say he is afraid. Some will tell you that he doesn't know politics.

Well, he may be lazy. He may be physically unable to go through a political fight such as is demanded to down Tom Taggart. He may not be a skilled politician. But I find, from what I can observe and learn from others, that Governor Marshall is first of all a Democrat rather than a public servant. He is over-anxious to advance Democratic harmony before the public welfare has been looked after. He was enough of a Democrat to use gladly all the help Tom Taggart could give him in 1908, and he was enough of a Democrat to take counsel with Taggart himself, in Room No. 27, the Denison hotel, Indianapolis, during his speaking campaign. But he was not enough of a loyal rank and file man to oppose Taggart last spring in the reorganization. Did he deal with Taggart, in 1908, in Room 27?

We all know the people looked to Marshall to make their fight against Taggartism. We all know how bitterly they were disappointed when he failed to take the lead. He permitted the rank and file to believe he would act as their captain. Then he did nothing.

The people lost their last finger-hold on the Democratic party. I hold Governor Marshall was to blame for that loss.

And now we are up to a point where Tom Taggart, the boss, selects a Democratic candidate for superintendent of public instruction. Taggart has our school system in his hands for better or worse. That's what it meant when Tom Marshall, pretended leader, cravenly laid down and delivered power to the bosses. That is not all it meant, but it is enough.

Truly, it is up to good people to fight all the time against the bosses.

Give the bosses the upper hand, as Marshall has done in the Democratic party, and not only the schools, but the very basis of good government will be menaced.

For one I hope Tom Marshall, shirker of duty, may get cold comfort out of the startling situation caused by the withdrawal of Dr. Aley from the Democratic state ticket.

OLD JOHN HENRY.

Durbin to Assist.

Colonel W. T. Durbin, former governor of Indiana, will enter into the personal work of Republican organization and campaign hustling after October 1. He is adjusting his business affairs so as to be able to devote some of his time to the Republican cause. State Chairman Lee looks on Colonel Durbin as "one of the best organizers in Indiana."

Every general pension law on the statute books of the country was placed there by a Republican congress.
Every pension law was initiated by a Republican.
Every vote cast against a general pension law has been a Democratic vote.
Every pension veto has been a Democratic veto.
Every Democratic caucus in house and senate is dominated by a majority hailing from states which once belonged to the "Confederacy." These Democrats, from the southern states, look on the system of pensions for Union veterans as an "imposition."
Champ Clark, heir apparent to Democratic house leadership, and who is to be speaker in case of Democratic victory next November, is the same Champ Clark who, in a public address, described the Morgan raid into Indiana as "the most heroic cavalry dash in the world's history."
Clark is from Missouri, and is against pensions for Union veterans.
Champ Clark received at the last session the votes of all Indiana Democratic congressmen for speaker. In case they are elected this fall these Democratic congressmen will vote for Champ Clark for speaker.
They will do this in spite of the fact that they know he is against pensions for Union veterans.
If they are able to muster the votes, these Indiana Democrats will help make Clark speaker, though they know that in the chair of the house he will kill pension bills as fast as they are put within his reach.
Great is Buncombe, and he has several Indiana prophets.

Heartily Approves State Action—Is
Amused by Pleas of Corporations
Who Seek to Control Water Power
Sites—Government Coal Lands
Should Not Be Sold.

Denver, Aug. 29.—This country has shown definite signs of waking up to the absolute necessity of handling its natural resources with foresight and common sense. The conservation question has three sides. In the first place, the needless waste of the natural resources must be stopped. It is rapidly becoming a well settled policy of this people that we of this generation hold the land in part for the next generation and not exclusively for our own selfish enjoyment.

Just as the farmer is a good citizen if he leaves his farm improved and not impaired for his children and a bad citizen if he skins the land in his own selfish interest, so the nation behaves well if it treats the natural resources as assets which it must turn over to the next generation increased and not impaired in value and behaves badly if it leaves the land poorer to those who come after us.

In the second place, the natural resources must be developed promptly, completely and in orderly fashion. It is not conservation to leave the natural resources undeveloped. Development is an indispensable part of the conservation plan. The forests, the mines, the water powers and the land itself must all be put to use.

Those who assert that conservation proposes to tie them up, depriving this generation of their benefits in order to hand them on untouched to the next miss the whole point of the conservation idea. Conservation does not mean depriving the men of today of their natural rights in the natural resources of the land.

All it means is that we of this generation shall so use our rights as not to deprive those who come after us of their natural rights in their turn.

In the third place, so far as possible these resources must be kept for the whole people and not handed over for exploitation to single individuals. We do not intend to discourage individual enterprise by unwisely diminishing the reward for that enterprise. On the contrary, we believe that the men of exceptional abilities should have exceptional rewards up to a point where the reward becomes disproportionate to the service, up to the point where the abilities are used to the detriment of the people as a whole.

We are for the liberty of the individual up to and not beyond the point where it becomes inconsistent with the welfare of the community. Thus our consistent aim is to favor the actual settler—the man who takes as much of the public domain as he himself can cultivate and there makes a permanent home for his children who come after him. But we are against the man, no matter what his ability, who tries to monopolize large masses of public land.

State and Federal Control.

Now, to preserve the general welfare, to see to it that the rights of the public are protected and the liberty of the individual secured and encouraged as long as consistent with this welfare and curbed when it becomes inconsistent therewith, it is necessary to invoke the aid of the government. There are points in which this governmental aid can best be rendered by the states; that is, where the exercise of state rights helps to secure popular rights, and as to these I believe in state rights.

But there are large classes of cases where only the authority of the national government will secure the rights of the people, and where this is the case I am a convinced and a thoroughgoing believer in the rights of the national government. Big business, for instance, is no longer an affair of any one state. Big business has become nationalized, and the only effective way of controlling and directing it and preventing abuses in connection with it is by having the people nationalize this control in order to prevent their being exploited by the individuals who have nationalized the business. All commerce on a scale sufficiently large to warrant any control over it by the government is nowadays interstate or foreign commerce, and until this fact is heartily acknowledged and acted upon by both courts and legislative bodies, national and state alike, the interest of the people will suffer.

In the matter of conservation, I heartily approve of state action where under our form of government the state, and the state only, has the power to act. I cordially join with those who desire to see the state, within its own sphere, take the most advanced position in regard to the whole matter of conservation.

I have taken exactly this attitude in my own state of New York. Where the state alone had power to act I have done all I could to get it to act in the most advanced manner, and where the nation could act I have done all I could to get national action in the same direction.

Unfortunately in the east we have in this matter paid the penalty of not having our forest land under national control, and the penalty has been severe. Most of the states, although they are old states, have not protected their forests, each failing to act by itself, because the action was really the common concern of all, and where action is the common concern of all experience has shown that it can only be profitably undertaken by the national government.

As a result of the impossibility of getting such wise action by the several state governments in the east we are doing our best to get national legislation under which the national government, at the expense of millions of dollars, shall undertake to do as regards the Appalachians and White mountains of the east what it is now doing in the Rocky mountains here out west.

Water Power.

Take the question of the control of the water power sites. The enormous importance of water power sites to the future industrial development of this country has only been realized within a very few years. Unfortunately the realization has come too late as regards many of the power sites, but many yet remain with which our hands are free to deal. We should make it our duty to see that hereafter the power sites are kept under the control of the general government for the use of the people as a whole.

The fee should remain with the people as a whole, while the use is leased on terms which shall secure an ample reward to the lessees, which shall encourage the development and use of the water power, but which shall not create a permanent monopoly or permit the development to be anti-social, to be in any respect hostile to the public good.

The nation alone has the power to do this effectively, and it is for this reason that you will find those corporations which wish to gain improper advantage and to be freed from efficient control on the part of the public doing all that they can to secure the substitution of state for national action.

There is something fairly comic in the appeal made by many of these men in favor of state control when you realize that the great corporations seeking the privileges of developing the water power in any given state are at least as apt to be owned outside that state as within it. In this country nowadays capital has a national and not a state use.

The great corporations which are managed and largely owned in the older states are those which are most in evidence in developing and using the mines and water powers and forests of the new territories and the new states from Alaska to Arizona.

I have been genuinely amused during the past two months at having arguments presented to me on behalf of certain rich men from New York and Ohio, for instance, as to why Colorado and other Rocky mountain states should manage their own water power sites. Now, these men may be good citizens according to their lights, but naturally enough their special interest obscures their sense of the public need, and as their object is to escape an efficient control, exercised in the interest of all the people of the country, they clamor to be put under the state instead of under the nation.

If we are foolish enough to grant their requests we shall have ourselves to blame when we wake up to find that we have permitted another privilege to trench itself and another portion of what should be kept for the public good to be turned over to individuals for purposes of private enrichment.

During the last session of congress bills were introduced to transfer the water power sites in the national forests and the public domain to the control of the states. I cannot state too strongly my belief that these measures are unwise and that it would be disastrous to enact them into law.

In substance their effect would be to free these great special interests from all effective control. The passage of such a bill would be a victory of the special interests over the general welfare and a long backward step down the hill of progress we have of late been climbing.

Coal Lands.

The same principle applies with peculiar force to the coal lands, and especially to the coal lands in Alaska, whose protection and ownership by the federal government are so necessary both for full and free industrial development in the west and for the needs of our fleet in the Pacific.

The coal mines should be leased, not sold, and those who mine the coal should pay back a part of the profit to the people. It is the right and duty of the people to demand the most vigilant trusteeship on that part of that branch of the federal government in charge of the fuel resources of the United States.

The Neutral Ground.

Remember also that many of the men who protest loudly against effective national action would be the first to turn round and protest against state action if such action in its turn became effective and would then unhesitatingly invoke the law to show that the state had no constitutional power to act.

Long experience has shown that it is by no means impossible in cases of constitutional doubt to get one set of judicial decisions which render it difficult for the nation to act and another set which render it impossible for the state to act. In each case the privileged beneficiaries of the decision invoke the aid of those who treat the constitution not as a healthy aid to growth, but as a fetish to prevent growth, and they assail the advocates of wise and cautious progress as being opponents of the constitution.

As I have said before, I am a strong believer in efficient national action where such action offers the best hope of securing and protecting the interest of the whole people as against the interest of a few. But I am emphatically in favor of state action where state action will best serve this purpose, and I am no less emphatically in favor of cordial and hearty co-operation between the nation and the states where their duties are identical or overlap.

If there is one thing which is more unwise than another it is the creation by legislative, by executive or by judicial action of a neutral ground in which neither the state nor the nation has power and which can serve as a place of refuge for the lawless man, and especially for the lawless man of great wealth, who can hire the best legal counsel to advise him how to keep his abiding place equally distant from the uncertain frontiers of both state and national power.

The Open Range.

I am here at the invitation of the Colorado Live Stock association, and I desire to express my appreciation of its steadfast stand for decency and progress in the handling of public lands and national forests. It has met and overcome the unrelenting opposition of some of the most influential stockmen of the state. It has won because it has been right. I want to express also my appreciation of the work of the American National Live Stock association. It has been one of the really important forces working toward effective railway regulation, while its support of the policy of federal range control has given it a large place in national affairs.

I do not believe that a single acre of our public lands should hereafter pass into private ownership except for the single purpose of homestead settlement, and I know that the stockmen stand with me in their desire to remove every obstacle from the path of the genuine homesteader and to put every possible obstacle in the pathway of the man who tries to get public lands by misrepresentation or fraud.

This is absolutely necessary on the agricultural lands. It is at least equally necessary on the mineral lands. It would be a calamity whose baleful effect on the average citizen we can scarcely exaggerate if the great stores of coal and other mineral fuels still owned by the people in Alaska and elsewhere should pass into the unregulated ownership of monopolistic corporations.

The Forest Service.

You progressive stockmen have stood heartily by the conservation movement, and with you have stood many others throughout the west, to whom large credit is due, such as the lumbermen in Washington and Oregon, the irrigators in California and the supporters of the country life movement in and around Spokane. I want to make my acknowledgments in particular to the Colorado Forestry association, which has supported the forest work of the government with such unselfish zeal. The forest service has enemies because it is effective. Some of its best work has been met by the bitterest opposition. For example, it has done a real service by blocking the road against the grabbers of water power and again by standing like a rock against the demands of bogus mining concerns to exploit the national forests.

I have always done my best to help the genuine miner. I believe that one of the first duties of the government is to encourage honest mining on the public lands. But it is equally important to enforce the law firmly against that particularly dangerous class which makes its living off the public through fraudulent mining schemes.

Much of the opposition to the forest service, like much of the opposition to conservation, takes the form of direct misrepresentation. For example, the cry is often heard that the national forests inclose great areas of agricultural land which are thus put beyond the reach of settlement.

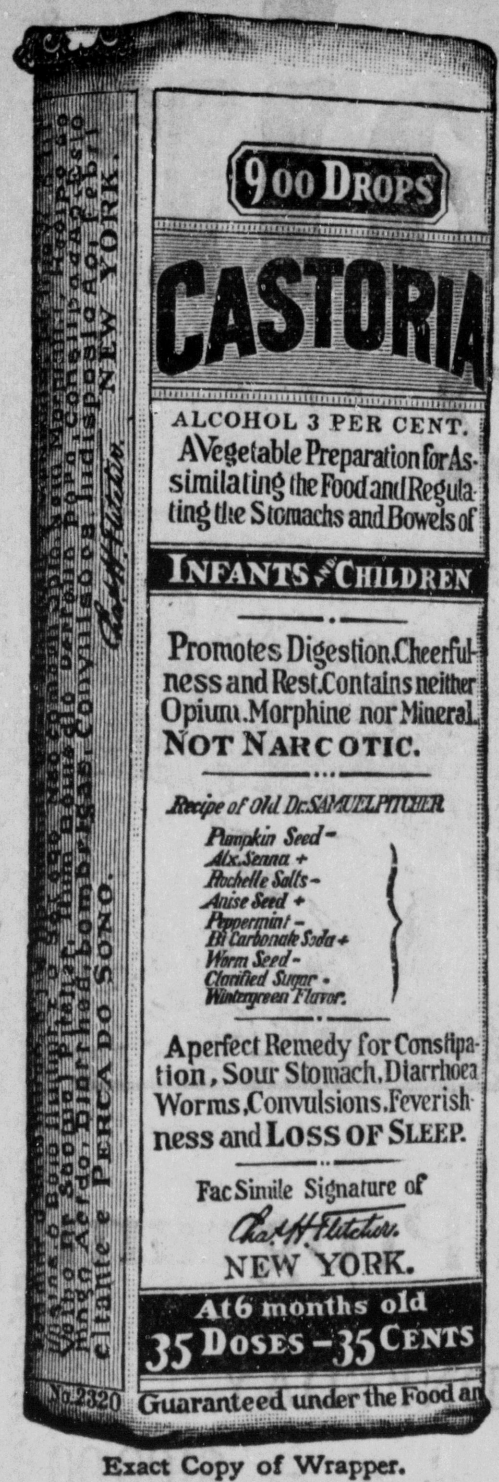

This statement seems plausible only till the facts are known. In the first place, congress has specially provided that whatever agricultural land there may be in any national forest shall be open, under proper safeguards, to homestead settlement, and in the second place, when the opponents of conservation are asked to point out the great stretches of inclosed agricultural land on the ground and in the presence of experts instead of in speeches in a hall they fail.

The Reclamation Service.

The national irrigation congress is to hold a session in the city of Pueblo late in September. I am keenly sorry that I could not have accepted the invitation to be present. I must, however, be in the east at that time. But since I cannot be present then to express my keen, long held and deep felt interest in the reclamation of arid lands by the federal government I desire to do so now.

There is no more effective instrument for the making of homes than the United States reclamation service, and no government bureau while I was president had reached a higher standard of efficiency, integrity and devotion to the public welfare.

MOB SCATTERED BY MACHINE GUN

Rioting Breaks Out Afresh At Ohio's Capital.

SEVERAL SERIOUSLY INJURED

Crowd Gathered About a Car Which Had Been Dynamited by Strike Sympathizers, and It Was Not Until the Militia Arrived With a Gatling Gun
That the Crowd of Two Thousand Broke.

Columbus, O., Aug. 30.—A mob of 2,000 persons battled with the police and militia last night when streetcar rioting broke out with fresh fury. Struck down by the clubs of policemen, several were seriously injured. One, a deputy sheriff, mistaken for a rioter, may die. A chauffeur for a police automobile was struck unconscious with a brick. Fifty rioters are arrested and locked in the city prison. The rioting started with the wrecking of cars on Leonard avenue by dynamite at Twentieth street. Following the explosions a mob gathered about the cars and assaulted the non-union crews with a volley of bricks and stones. Though the cars had been thrown from the tracks, the windows shattered and the floor splintered, neither the motorman nor conductor had been injured. They stuck to the car amid a shower of missiles until Chief Carter arrived with an auto load of police.

Leaping from the machine, the chief and Officers Nicholas, Gump, Nichols and Peak charged the crowd with their clubs, ordering them to disperse. Those who hesitated were struck down. Deputy Sheriff Waters, who had been assisting to scatter the mob, was not recognized. A policeman struck him to the ground with a blow on the left side of the head.

Bricks, bottles and rocks were hurled at the policemen as they wielded their clubs. The mob defied them, shouting "Scab!" and jeering them. It was then that Captain Bush arrived in an auto with a mounted machine gun and a squad of Battery C artillery. Jumping to the ground, Captain Bush led a charge on the crowd, his men aiming their sticks right and left. A number of rioters were felled to the pavement. In a panic the crowd suddenly broke and scattered. Men, women and children dashed madly through the yards and into houses. Police and soldiers followed, using their sticks with telling effect. Rushing into houses, men were dragged out by soldiers amid the screams of women and children.

A Notable Achievement.

Washington, Aug. 29.—Other baseball sharps are talking of duplicating Billy Sullivan's feat of catching a baseball dropped from the top of the Washington monument. Sullivan caught one after many trials, but was not content until he had stopped two more. He says the balls felt as if they weighed a ton, but that the tremendous shock did not hurt his hands in the least.

HE HEARS HINTS OF CONSPIRACY

Indianapolis Mayor Says There's a Plot Against Him.

BREWERS AFTER HIS "GOAT"

According to Information Which Mayor Shank Says Has Reached His Ears, Certain Members of the City Council and the Brewers Have Started Movement for His Impeachment, With View to Naming His Successor.

Indianapolis, Aug. 30.—Mayor Shank declares that a conspiracy has been formed between members of the city council and brewers to impeach him, declare his office vacant and appoint his successor. Some time ago the council started an investigation to learn who gave the saloon men a "tip" that they might keep open on Sunday, and the mayor says an effort is making to show that he gave the tip.

"I am told," said the mayor, "that a certain discharged employee of the city has been going to saloon keepers and offering to pay them to testify that they had a tip indirectly from me that they could stay open on Sunday without fear of being arrested, but I don't know whether this man has been acting for members of the council or for himself."

"I want to say," continued the mayor, "that I am on to what a few members of the city council are trying to do in the way of impeachment proceedings against me, and I want the public to know where I stand on this matter. I demand of the city council that it begin its tip investigation at once." The mayor said he had been informed that five members of the council were pledged to impeach him, but he would not give their names. In case the mayor should be removed, under the law, the city controller would succeed him to the office. Should the city controller fail to take the office, the city clerk would succeed to the position. The law says nothing further about the manner of succession to the office.

Brazil, Ind., Aug. 30.—Frank Shaffer, aged thirty-two, who was stabbed during a fight on a miners' train at Harmony by his nephew, George Altman, is dead. A great deal of feeling has been stirred up over the affair, as the principals are members of prominent families. Altman's father, who went on his son's bond, promised to bring his son to the sheriff in case Shaffer died, and an hour after Shaffer succumbed to his wounds, Altman brought his son to this city, turning him over to the authorities. He is now in jail. Shaffer leaves a widow and three children.

Altman was to have been married Sunday to a prominent young woman of Knightsville. He has employed an attorney to defend him, and will plead self-defense.

Mr. Gaynard finally gained his feet and ran toward a tree. The bull followed, but Gaynard climbed on a limb just as the bull dashed against the tree. The enraged animal besieged him there all night. Gaynard's son rescued him early in the morning with a shotgun, driving the bull away.

Tragedy Follows Petty Quarrel.

Sullivan, Ind., Aug. 30.—During a quarrel over the loss of a quarter in a crap game, Charles Burton, aged twenty-seven, a mule driver at Jackson mill No. 4, shot and almost instantly killed August Staples, aged thirty-two. The shooting was witnessed by a dozen coal miners who had crowded around the game on the sidewalk in front of the company store. Burton calmly rolled a cigarette after the shooting and walked away and has not been captured.

VATICAN'S ATTITUDE REMAINS UNCHANGED

Unless Canalejas Relents Conflict Must Continue.

Rome, Aug. 29.—Unless Senor Canalejas, the Spanish prime minister, adopts a conciliatory attitude, the conflict between Spain and the vatican, instead of ending, will enter upon a more acute stage. This was shown by the utterances of Cardinal Merry Del Val, the papal secretary of state, when he received the Spanish charge d'affaires, to whom he frankly said that the holy see has right on its side and can reap from the present difficulties all the advantages, while it runs no risks. The religious enthusiasm and loyalty which the attempt at persecution has aroused in Spain more than repays, the cardinal said, all anxiety and suffering. He held out no hope of the vatican changing its attitude.

Reiterates His Assertion.

San Sebastian, Spain, Aug. 29.—Premier Canalejas has reiterated his assertions that the bill interdicting the establishment of further religious orders in Spain would not be withdrawn and could not be without violating the Spanish constitution.

Sex and Handwriting.

That it is possible to determine sex from handwriting in perhaps 80 cases out of 100 is a conclusion reached from an examination of the writing of 200 persons. The specimens were submitted to two "professional graphologists" as well as to fifteen persons ignorant of their art. The so called sex signs are found to be largely influenced by the amount of writing done, by age and to a certain extent by practice and by professional requirements, as in the conventional writing of teachers and the rapid hand of bookkeepers.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

BOSS DOMINATION

Greathouse Candidacy Emphasizes Tom Taggart's Strength.

[Special Correspondence.]

Indianapolis, Aug. 30.—"If Governor Marshall had been here last Thursday there might have been a fight over the selection of a successor to Dr. R. J. Aleo on the Democratic state ticket." So said a Marshall Democrat yesterday. When Dr. Aleo withdrew from the Democratic ticket it was supposed that Governor Marshall would be called in to assist in the important political task of substituting the best possible man to take the place of the superintendent of public instruction. While the Taggart men were well pleased to see Dr. Aleo get out of the field and out of politics, some Democrats believed they could see that the loss of Dr. Aleo meant the loss of a lot of votes. There was a pretty general feeling that Dr. Aleo was likely to gain support from educators regardless of party in more or less degree. It was the theory of Dr. Aleo and of Governor Marshall that Democrats ought to pick a high grade man to whom Dr. Aleo might attach his own endorsement, and to whom he might rally the Aleo independent strength.

Now that was just plain political gumption, as plain as the nose on one's face. It was so obvious that many political observers were inclined to believe the Taggart crowd would jump at the chance to get the man on whom the Aleo forces could center their support. But the man who seeks logic in Taggart boss politics is likely to be disappointed. The Taggart crowd, coached in person by Thomas, the wily, hustled through the matter of filling the state ticket vacancy. There was no "by your leave" to Governor Marshall, the logical leader of the Democratic party in the state. There was no message to the exiles at Petoskey. Kern and Marshall were not asked for counsel. The deal went through with a bang. The forces of education and the school men were ignored. In place of the highly trained Dr. Aleo, and the brilliant and splendidly equipped George Tapy, the people were given Charley Greathouse, full-back of one time fame, and grain broker of the present.

So far as is known Dr. Aleo has not put himself behind the Greathouse candidacy. It would tickle Taggart and the crowd to have Aleo do this for Greathouse. It would be the "natural" thing for Dr. Aleo to do, according to Taggart's view. But Dr. Aleo will not vouch for Greathouse. He cannot do so. He does not know Greathouse's possibilities, either for good or evil. So he will keep out and will go his way to Maine, and try to forget Taggartism and its humiliations. Governor Marshall sounded a warning against political boss handling of the school problem. He favored Prof. Tapy, of Wabash college, and Dr. Aleo was ready to boost Tapy strongly. Tapy was ignored by the politicians. So it is not necessary for either Tapy, Marshall, or Aleo, to assist in furthering the interests of Greathouse.

Marshall would have made a fight for the schools if he had been on the job. Marshall would have braved the bosses in the name of efficiency for the Indiana school system, if he had been in the state. But he was away fishing. The significant thing about this Democratic situation is that Tom Taggart was on the job and doing business at the right time,—to suit his own purposes. It seems a pity that those who profess to oppose Taggartism are always out of reach when most needed. Taggart never fails to put through his schemes. Taggart never lingers away when there are Democratic party destinies to be worked out his way. It is the Marshall crowd; it is the anti-Taggart people who avoid trouble, avoid effort, and let things slide. There is a question if it was not worth Marshall's while to give up his pole and line and hurry back to Indiana to take a man's part in saving the Indiana schools from possible domination by a Taggart. His friends say the Democratic governor would have been beaten and humiliated once more if he had opposed the Taggart men. Well, what of it? Better and stronger men have been humiliated by this same Taggart in the past. They have gone down fighting. They have refused to yield or to dicker. That is to their credit, at least.

OUT OF THE PAST

Nearly Forgotten Crime Recalled by Finding of Bullet-Marked Skull.

Anderson, Ind., Aug. 29.—William A. Thompson, a retired contractor and former marshal of Anderson, has connected the recent finding of a skull in the south part of the county with an unexplained tragedy which is said to have occurred more than forty-five years ago. Mr. Thompson stated that in the early spring of 1865, while he was town marshal, Mrs. Pat McCluskey, whose husband bore an unsavory reputation, came to him and informed him of a terrible crime in which she believed her husband was implicated.

According to the story, a wealthy stock buyer from Cincinnati had arrived in this city a few days before and was very intimate with McCluskey. Mrs. McCluskey informed the marshal that she heard her husband remark to a comrade, "he's worth going after." That night the stock buyer left town accompanied by McCluskey and his partner, and at 3 o'clock the next morning McCluskey returned home covered with black mud.

Before the townspeople had been aroused, however, McCluskey departed and was never seen again by his wife. Thompson believes the skull recently found with a bullet hole through the forehead, belonged to the Cincinnati stock buyer. It is said that his family, which was wealthy in Cincinnati at that time, made an exhaustive search for the missing man.

Pure Food Law Violators Use
Taggart Bureau.

VICIOTS ATTACK ON OFFICER

Counsel For Interests Which Seek to Break Down Pure Food Laws Works
Partisan Bureau and impose on Honest Papers of State—Bureau Writer
Later Lands on Law's Side of Pure Food Cases.

In a letter sent out to Democratic papers the other day, the Democratic publicity bureau attacked Attorney General Bingham viciously for traveling in search of testimony, depositions, witnesses and material with which to make the state's cases against pure food law violators.

In effect the Democratic bureau, apparently at the suggestion of the Democratic governor, but really in response to arguments from cunning counsel for the pure food law violators, declared against any effort by the state of Indiana to defend its position or to uphold the important laws against food frauds and adulterants.

Attorneys for the pure food law violators, having failed to induce any reputable newspaper in Indianapolis or elsewhere to use their underhanded and crooked attacks on the attorney general's office, rightly figured that the Democratic press bureau, in its blind partisanship, and in its Taggart antipathy against the Republican attorney general, would snap at the tainted "dope."

The bureau accepted the bait and swallowed the adulterated stuff greedily, and used all the Democratic editors it could influence, in furthering the evil designs of the poisoners who sell rotten foods to the public. The trick worked.

A few days later, when the Republican attorney general of Indiana met obstacles interposed by tricky lawyers at Washington, and was forced to make a fight in court for testimony needed to complete Indiana's case, the Democratic press bureau sent out a story attacking some supposed Washington officers who were "trying to hamper the attorney general" and block the enforcement of the pure food laws.

Now the Democratic press bureau attacked the Republican attorney general of Indiana because he was a Republican, and because Thomas Taggart does not love him personally, since the Casino suits. And the same bureau turned about within a week and attacked someone else at Washington on the ground that the same attorney general was being "hampered."

In one letter the Democratic bureau lampooned the attorney general for going after evidence to enforce the pure food laws. In its next letter it lambasted men who apparently were trying to keep that evidence from the attorney general. What is the public to believe?

SERVICE TO PARTY

Senator Beveridge Long Has Been Great Help to Republican Cause.

Senator Beveridge for years has been one of the strong orators of Republicanism in state and nation. His speaking tours for the national Republican committee, and his efforts every campaign on behalf of the Indiana state and congressional tickets have been a source of help to the Republican cause and to the cause of the people generally. Not only has Senator Beveridge proved to be a vote-getter, but he has time and again demonstrated loyalty, zeal and effectiveness as a Republican campaigner. His speeches have been consistent in voicing the militant, progressive doctrine of the Republican party of Lincoln, Harrison, Fairbanks and Roosevelt.

The Fort Wayne News' Indianapolis correspondent quotes what Senator Beveridge said in 1908 in support of the Republican state ticket, and especially in urging the election of James E. Watson for governor of Indiana. Senator Beveridge said, at Richmond:

"Every place that I have spoken I have asked the people to make the popular majority of James E. Watson for governor equal to that of W. H. Taft for president. I earnestly hope that every Republican—yes, and every Democrat who values the welfare of the state—will not only cast his ballot for Mr. Watson, but that from now until election day he will work for him with might and main."

At Terre Haute Senator Beveridge said, on this same line:

"Our candidate, James E. Watson, has had twelve years' experience in congress. He has risen by force of native qualities to be whip of the house. When we remember that the house has nearly 400 members, of whom nearly 300 are Republicans, we can see how great a distinction that is."

"He is able, he is highly trained, and he is one of the most brilliant orators that Indiana has ever produced. The Republicans of Indiana have made him our standard-bearer. Let us all rally, and by an overwhelming majority elect as the next governor of Indiana that eloquent man and skilled legislator, James E. Watson."

MAINE'S GOVERNOR.

Bert M. Fernald Wants to Be

TO RAISE THE MAINE IN FINE CONDITION

Contractor O'Rourke Tells His Plan to President.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 30.—President Taft sat on the vine-covered veranda of his summer cottage and heard from John F. O'Rourke of New York the story of how, on next Christmas morning the hull of the Maine can be lifted clear of the water in Havana harbor. Mr. O'Rourke, who wants the contract for raising the wreck of the Maine, explained to Mr. Taft that the hull can be brought up in such perfect condition as to permit the whole world to determine whether the Spanish-American war was justified.

If Mr. O'Rourke's plan is carried out, 1,000 men wearing the uniform of the United States will man the jacks which will swing the ship's keel above the waves in a cradle of many cables. The wreck, for twelve years and a half buried in the mud at the bottom of the sea, will hang in her steel hammock in exactly the same crippled condition that sent her down, and the soldiers at the jacks, having secured her in her strange mooring, will at last recover the bodies of the men who were drowned when she sank. Mr. O'Rourke talked so well that Mr. Taft listened to him for an hour and a half, and Secretary of the Navy Meyer, who dropped in for a call and heard the last hour of the speech, asked for more particulars.

"If the war department will act promptly and give me the contract," said O'Rourke, "I'll have the Maine above water on Christmas day."

Mr. O'Rourke also expressed his belief that the Maine, when raised and given necessary repairs, will be able to steam to New York under her own power.

PUBLIC WELFARE TO BE GUARDED

New Railroad Law Puts People
Above Corporations.

SHIVELY'S "JOKER" RECALLED

Republican Measure Saved From Secret Plotters Who Tried to Slip in an Amendment to Permit Revival of Old Rebating Evil—Shively Tool of Tricky Interests, Ruthlessly Exposed.

The railway law passed by the recent congress will vitally affect the whole transportation system and commerce of the country. It marks an amazing advance in the movement on the part of the American people to control for the public welfare the highways of trade and travel.

The new railroad law creates a Commerce Court. To this court five judges are assigned from among United States circuit judges, by the chief justice of the United States. They are to serve five years. This new court has the exclusive function of hearing and deciding cases brought for the purpose of enforcing or setting aside orders of the interstate commerce commission and certain other classes of cases for the regulation of interstate commerce. Appeals from this court may be taken to the United States supreme court.

In these cases the United States itself is to be a party, represented by the attorney general's office. The interstate commerce commission and shippers may be represented by counsel. Common carriers are to have in reach of the court agents on whom papers can be served. Telegraph and telephone companies are subject to the same act.

The law says that common carriers cannot charge more for a short haul than for a long haul, except as they can show the commission the justice of the charge.

A railway, competing against a water route, and cutting rates on any kind of freight, is not permitted to increase such rates unless it can show the change is due to causes other than a removal of water competition.

The new railway regulation law provides also a commission to take up the physical valuation of the railroads, the problem of remedying the stock-watering evil, and other important phases of regulation.

The people regard the railways as public highways to be administered not only for gain, but for the benefit of the public. There is a proper demand for what the people regard as public rights in the public highways. This demand is being recognized by the Republican party. The expression of that theory is found in the new railroad law.

The people these days are voting for the man who believes in railway rate regulation and in the management of public utilities for the public welfare first and for private profit second.

Indiana voters keep in mind at this time the fact that Democrats from Indiana in the congress voted against the railroad law. Senator Shively, Democrat, gained some notoriety in connection with this legislation. He was caught trying to slip a joker into the measure to permit the old wrong of rebating. He was exposed to the whole country in this despicable business, and was held up to public scorn because of it.

Not much of a record for a public servant, is it? But this is Shively's record on this law.

When he might have served the people he acted as the tricky tool of the corporations.

It was unfortunate for Shively and the Democratic party that his queer deal found him out. But it was decidedly fortunate for the people that wary friends of honest regulation were on the job and ready to disclose the evil in the Shively rebating amendment.

Democratic Dissension.

Democrats are falling down completely in their efforts to hoodwink the people with the idea that a landslide is coming that will sweep them into power in the lower house. Their party in the west as in the east is in no shape for a good fight. It is as hopelessly divided now as it was in the last presidential election. The Democrats of Minnesota proved this at their convention in Minneapolis when a mob ruled the body and where for three hours the chairman was unable to bring the delegates into any kind of order. Between hisses and cheers the convention made a mess of it and the man nominated for governor promptly declined to run. Democrats after this exhibition and others nearly as bad would do well to look to their own ranks instead of counting on defection from Republican ranks to pull their candidate through.—Baltimore American.

Cars Wanted.

The American Railway Association has sent out warning that the fall traffic is sure to cause a serious car shortage. Democrats were talking of idle cars a few weeks ago, at a time when railroad companies were gathering "empties" to handle the crops.

REPUBLICANS GET SHARE OF CREDIT

Lighting Contract Is Two Thirds Republican.

WHEELER IS REAL REFORMER

Effort of Democrats to Show Governor Marshall as Economy Booster Fails to Tell Truth as to Part Taken by Majority—Republicans Took Initiative for Economy and Brought About Desirable Result.

The public buildings and grounds commission, two Republicans and one Democrat, made a contract for lighting the statehouse some time ago, and the Democratic publicity bureau is pointing out the fact that the new lighting contract is advantageous to the state and to the people.

It is true that the state now is paying 3½ cents per 1,000 kilowatts for service which, before competition entered the bidding field, cost 10 cents per 1,000 watts. It is true that the new contract is advantageous to the state. It is true that the state of Indiana, through its public buildings and grounds commission, took the earliest possible advantage of competition in the lighting business.

No special credit is to be given to any public officer in the matter, unless it be accorded to Charles J. Wheeler, the Republican custodian of the statehouse. Mr. Wheeler found the state was paying 10 cents per 1,000 watts to a lighting company which was the only bidder, and which had a monopoly. He induced that company to cut its rate to 5 cents per 1,000 watts, through his own urgent efforts. Later, when a new company made a bid, the price was cut to 3½ cents.

Mr. Wheeler was the original mover. Fred A. Sims, secretary of state, and John C. Billheimer, auditor of state, both Republicans, took the matter up, informed Governor Marshall of the situation, and the Democratic governor readily joined them in obtaining price reductions through new competition.

Governor Marshall does not claim more than one-third the credit for this sensible and opportune achievement. He is entitled to that.

WITH THE DEMOCRATS

Samuel Gompers, labor leader, turns down Indiana Democratic bosses.

Taggart forced to invite Bryan to speak in Indiana. No date set.

Sterling R. Holt, Democrat, says Bryan will do more harm than good.

Dr. R. J. Alecy, Democratic candidate for superintendent of public instruction, gets out of the race, weakening the ticket.

Tom Taggart comes to Indiana from Hyannisport, Mass., to select a Democratic candidate for superintendent of public instruction.

George H. Tapy, Governor Marshall's choice for Dr. Alecy's place, is ignored by Taggart.

Governor Marshall's request for conference on Alecy matter is scorned.

Charley Greathouse picked by Taggart for superintendent of public instruction.

Low Ellingham, Democratic candidate for secretary of state, says he will "fight back" at 75,000 labor men who are against him.

Joe Folk of Missouri warns Indiana Democrats that the drift is to the Republican party in Indiana. Bryan also sounds same warning.

Stokes Jackson, Democratic state chairman, attacks Colonel Roosevelt.

James L. Keach, Democrat, rival of Taggart, in open revolt against the Democratic demand for return to era of low prices.

W. J. Bryan meets Henry Watterson at Evansville and tells Watterson he would cut off an arm before he would support Harmon for president.

Sterling R. Holt declares for Harmon or Gaynor for president.

R. W. Miers is out for Champ Clark for president.

Democratic bureau says Tom Taggart can be trusted to make a fair "gerrymander" of Indiana.

John W. Kern, "he lay low."

POLITICAL PARAGRAPHS

So far as known the date for Mr. Bryan's Indiana speech has not been announced. Mysterious delay somewhere. Let's have the Bryan date.

Joseph Folk was right when he told Indiana Democrats that their gravest danger lay in the drift from the Democratic party as now controlled, into the Republican party.

What did Colonel Bryan say to Colonel Watterson about "Harmon and Harmony"? The two men met at Evansville, Ind. Will the Democratic publicity bureau tell an anxious public what Colonel Bryan said to Colonel Watterson?

R. K. Bedgood, of Lafayette, Republican candidate for joint representative in Tippecanoe and Montgomery counties, is a strong friend of Senator Beveridge. He says he finds the people are for Senator Beveridge, and are determined that he shall be returned to Washington.

Samuel Gompers is a pretty plain talker. He says: "If I come to Indiana to speak in this campaign, it will not be under the auspices of any political party." The Democratic manager who announced Mr. Gompers' name as one of the party's stellar orators, is still rubbing the bump where Mr. Gompers' wallop landed.

Low Ellingham, Democratic candidate for secretary of state, says that if labor men continue their fight against him, he will "fight back." It is pretty well understood that labor men will carry their campaign against all their enemies right up to the polls and there give it all the force they are able to give it. Mr. Ellingham's boast of being ready to "fight back" is not expected to intimidate the men who are on his political trail at this time.

Democratic managers of the Parker fiasco campaign of 1904 abused Theodore Roosevelt and made his personality the issue. Their folly was pretty well proved by the 2,600,000 plurality that rolled up for Teddy. It is unbelievable that these same Parker Democrats would repeat in 1910 the unutterable folly of 1904. Yet we have Stokes Jackson, Democratic state chairman, attacking Roosevelt on the assumption that someone, somewhere, has "discredited" the former president. Mr. Jackson apparently does not recall the 94,000 plurality Indiana gave to Rooseveltism. Mr. Jackson seemingly ignores the fact that Rooseveltism is a large issue of the year in Indiana.

The sudden arrival of Thomas Taggart in Indianapolis Thursday was due to the fact that the educational system of Indiana demanded his presence. Five hundred thousand school children and their pleading parents, with an army of educators, were holding out their hands to Mr. Taggart, appealing to him for help. So Mr. Taggart came back to Indiana to select for the children, their parents and for the educators of Indiana a candidate for superintendent of public instruction to fill a vacancy on the Democratic ticket. It is painful to think what might have happened to the schools of Indiana if Mr. Taggart had remained in the east instead of hurrying back to do his duty as mentor of the state's great educational system.

EXCHANGE VALUES OF 1910 AND 1896.

The average prices of the principal farm products in March, 1896, as shown by the bulletins of the United States Bureau of Labor, reveal in a striking manner the prosperity of the farmer.

The real value of any article is its exchange value. The real worth of farm products is measured by comparison with the value of articles which the farmer wants to purchase.

Figuring on the general wholesale price of articles, ten bushels of corn in 1896 would buy 21 pounds of Rio coffee, in 1910, 70 pounds; ten bushels of corn equalled in value 53 gallons of refined petroleum in March, 1910; 23 gallons in March, 1896; ten bushels of corn equalled in value 1,040 brick in March, 1910, and 519 in March, 1896; ten bushels of corn equalled in value 337 pounds of wire nails in March, 1910, and 95 pounds in March, 1896; ten bushels of corn equalled in value 131 pounds of sugar in March, 1910, and 59 pounds in March, 1896, etc.

A 300-pound hog, when valued in merchandise at the wholesale rate, equalled 36 barrels of salt in March, 1910, and 16 barrels in March, 1896. Twenty pounds of butter showed values as follows when measured in the wholesale price of staple articles: Coffee, No. 7 Rio, in March, 1910, 70 pounds, in March, 1896, 29 pounds; granulated sugar, 130 pounds in March, 1910, as compared with 82 pounds in 1896, etc. A case of eggs which would have bought 72 yards of Ameskeag gingham in March, 1896, would have bought 110 yards of the same material in March of this year.

Month Saw Gompers Turn Down the Bosses—Dr. Alecy Dropped Off State Ticket, Leaving—Labor Opened Fire on Ellingham—Bryan Made Plain His "Insurgency" Against Harmon and Harmony.

WOES OF BOSSES GROW IN AUGUST

Heaping Measure of Trouble
For Taggart Crowd.

MANY "IMPORTANT" EVENTS

Month Saw Gompers Turn Down the Bosses—Dr. Alecy Dropped Off State Ticket, Leaving—Labor Opened Fire on Ellingham—Bryan Made Plain His "Insurgency" Against Harmon and Harmony.

"August has been an important month for the Indiana Democracy," says a letter from the Democratic bureau at Indianapolis.

This statement is true. Important things have happened to Indiana Democrats in the month of August. Here are some of the incidents which helped to make the month notable:

Joseph Folk, of Missouri, came to Indiana and informed Democratic managers that their chief danger lay in the fact that progressive Democrats are drifting to the Republican party. That was important, and true.

W. J. Bryan came to Indiana and forced the Democratic managers, against their expressed will and purpose, to invite him to speak in the state.

Mr. Bryan also warned these same managers not to build false hopes on the theory that Republicans would vote the Democratic ticket. In view of the fact that Democrats cannot win without Republican votes, this warning was important.

Worthy of note, also, was Mr. Bryan's encounter with Col. Henry Watterson, at Evansville, and the Bryan refusal to join the "Harmon and harmony" movement.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, when in Indianapolis, helped to make August important to Democrats. Mr. Gompers contributed his part in the form of a repudiation of the Democratic party in Indiana. The Democratic managers had announced that Mr. Gompers would speak for them. Mr. Gompers announced that he would not speak for the Democratic party. Indiana labor leaders added their chorus against the Democratic organization as now controlled. All of which is important.

It was in this important month of August that labor started its fight against Low Ellingham, Democratic candidate for secretary of state. As this fight extends to some 80,000 voters, it is important.

August saw Dr. R. J. Alecy withdraw from the Democratic state ticket as a candidate for superintendent of public instruction. Most people regard this as a loss of political strength to the Democratic ticket generally. So on that basis alone the disappearance of Dr. Alecy is "important."

The return of Thomas Taggart from Hyannisport, Mass., especially to attend, in person, to the nomination of a new Democrat for superintendent of public instruction, was important in more ways than one.

The shelving of State Chairman Stokes Jackson, and the creation by Thomas Taggart of a "campaign committee" headed by Sam Ralston, was "important" to Jackson, Ralston and Taggart.

Minor troubles like the forcing out of a Democratic county chairman here and there by organized labor, the withdrawals of Democratic county candidates or the refusal of nominees to take their places on Democratic local tickets, cannot be called "important," but summed up, August was filled with such events, and so was made a degree or so more "important" for that reason.

It is not to be forgotten that the month of August has seen the revolt of James L. Keach and the refusal of a large mass of Democrats to take up the issue of commodity prices as the campaign slogan. Keach's bold declaration that he refuses to be led back to an era of low prices, idleness and soup-kitchens—coming from a Democrat who is Taggart's rival—is properly to be rated as "important."

Yes, August was an important month for Democrats in Indiana.

Tribute From Illinois.

The principal address of the day was made by Hon. Otis E. Gulley, of Danville, Ind., at 2:30 o'clock. It was one of the best addresses ever delivered in this city on such an occasion. So well pleased were the people with his address that the Newman Memorial association has already engaged him for the address next Decoration Day. Hon. Mr. Gulley is the Republican candidate for secretary of state of Indiana and in him the people of Indiana, if they see fit to choose him, will have selected a man capable of looking after the state's interests.—Newman (Ill.) Independent.

Labor in Demand.

Labor just now is in demand in and about the city in various industries and the supply is not equal to the demand. Surrounding towns are searched for men who want to work.—Washington Democrat.

Labor is in demand, and it will continue to be in demand unless the Democratic free traders get a chance to destroy the protective tariff system.—Washington Herald.

GREATHOUSE TAGGART CHOICE

Governor Marshall Left Out by Democratic State Committee—Aley's Resignation Accepted and the Vacancy Filled Without Delay—Prof. Tapy Gets No Hearing, Though Urged by Governor.

Thomas Taggart had his way in the matter of filling the vacancy on the Democratic state ticket, and picked Charley Greathouse, his good friend, to take the place of Dr. R. J. Aley, resigned, as a candidate for superintendent of public instruction.

Mr. Taggart traveled from Massachusetts to Indiana to make the selections. He refused to leave it to Governor Marshall, who wished to place Prof. George H. Tapy on the ticket. Mr. Taggart refused even to trust the state committee. He came in person and fixed it for Charley, the Indianapolis grain broker.

Dr. Aley defeated Greathouse for the nomination in 1906, after Greathouse had tried and failed to land in a former campaign. It is an interesting phase of bossism in Indiana Democracy that after failing to nominate his man through the votes of delegates in state convention, Mr. Taggart finds it easy to place Greathouse on the ticket after all. Mr. Greathouse was not the choice of his party in 1906. He was rejected. But he is Taggart's choice, and on the ticket he goes, whether the party wants him or not.

Governor Marshall's friends were not in on the Greathouse deal. They asked that the matter be delayed a few days until the Democratic governor could return to the state and present the claims of Prof. Tapy to the committee. No Marshall man was in the Taggart committee meeting. The Twelfth district was not represented at all. Taggart had either proxies or his followers on the job, and they did his will without hesitating.

Mr. Taggart refused to wait to take counsel with the governor. Dr. Aley failed to keep his agreement with Marshall to hold up his resignation until Saturday. So between the haste of Taggart and the submission of Aley to pressure, the governor was justified in continuing his indefinite Petoskey outing.

DISCORD IN DELAWARE.

Democrats Dump Byron Moffett and Bosses Boost for Joe O'Day.

Byron Moffett, Democratic chairman of Delaware county, was forced to resign and get off the committee. Labor men refused to countenance Moffett and when the Taggart men in Delaware county found Mr. Moffett refused to do their bidding, he was given short shrift and was forced to walk the plank. The opposition of labor was given as an excuse for dumping Moffett. But it became known at the same time that Moffett had displeased the Democratic bosses by refusing to certify the nomination of Joe O'Day as the Democratic candidate for representative.

O'Day's nomination was contested by Dr. E. L. Brandon, of Daleville. Moffett took Brandon's side of a bitter controversy. The Democratic bosses in the county sided with O'Day because he is their man. So Moffett had to go.

The Brandon people assert that when O'Day tied Brandon on the first ballot in the convention, O'Day had one illegal vote—that of an alternate whose corresponding delegate also voted. The mistake was learned later. In the meantime, O'Day had been nominated on the second ballot over Brandon. Brandon demands the nomination as his by the majority given him on the first ballot. He says there should have been no second. It is now conceded that neither O'Day nor Brandon could be elected under the existing circumstances. As for Moffett, he is out of it, and there is all sorts of trouble over the choice of his successor.

Republicans of Harrison county have nominated Ed. S. Tuell for representative.

MORE ABOUT PRICES.

The Democratic Seymour Herald tells of the sale by Claude Swengel to Frank Abel, of Jonesville, of two carloads of hogs for more than $3,000. There were 120 head, and they averaged about 278 pounds. They brought a little more than 9 cents a pound, or an average of more than $25 a hog. It was stated that Mr. Swengel had marketed more than $6,000 worth of hogs at or near the $9 per 100 figure.

Of course the Democratic paper was not telling all this as an argument against $9 pork or in favor of a return to the low price era. It was merely a news item, run in the course of a newspaper's newsy day.
